

MISCELLANEOUS

As the town grows there is certain to be a change in the location of the business center of Reno. Hitherto it has been the typical Pacific railroad town, with a few hotels and a row of one-story stores parallel to the track and dwelling houses behind, but, as its trade and manufactures develop, the freight depot and passenger station have less importance in proportion, and new locations are sought for where the smoke, cinders and noise of ringing bells, singing valves and shrieking whistles have less of a monopoly. The row of little one-story bricks at Lorraine, Cheyenne, North Platte and Grand Island are now pretty much given up to lunch stands and quick grocery stores for emigrant supplies, while the better class of stores, offices and shops have taken a more retired station. An interesting question comes up, "Where will Reno's best quarter be when the population doubles again?" It was thought once that Second street would be headquarters for the finer retail trade, and the north side of the Plaza would catch the wholesale business the Interstate Commerce law was to bring here. There seems to be now no law to guide the travel of trade, and the only way to tell is to wait and see. The chances are that the location blessed with the most energetic business men, with means and enterprise to put up fine buildings, will capture the plum.

The young men who indulge in the bad habit of jumping on and off the steps of the passenger trains as they pull out of the station should be made to desist before they break their own or some one else's limbs. They are a nuisance. A good many passengers are not ready to step aboard until the cars begin to move, and these "blooms" are more "consequent" than if they were through first-class passengers.

The Carson Appeal remarks: "Florida voted for free trade in November, but now thinks it would be very nice to have a protective tariff of $1 a box on oranges. Like the Louisiana sugar planters, these estimable Democrats believe in protection for themselves and free trade for everybody else."

We are pleased to learn that the Public Library is being patronized by quite a number of young men who have hitherto been spending their evenings and earnings at the saloons.

A Probable Accident.
DENVER, Col., April 20.—Dr. W. T. Wilson, considered one of the most talented oculists in the country, and certainly without a peer in the Rocky Mountain regions, died late last night of an overdose of morphine. Mr. Wilson was suffering for some time from insomnia, and took the drug to secure sleep, and evidently miscalculated the amount. Several eminent physicians were summoned when his condition was discovered, and they walked him for three hours, without avail. He was only 29 years of age, and was a pupil of Dr. Knapp of New York. His income in this city was estimated at $30,000 annually. He leaves a widow here and a mother at Chertown, Iowa.

Arrival of the Wounded.
Special to the GAZETTE.
SAN FRANCISCO, April 20.—The steamer Umattila arrived here this morning, eight days from Honolulu. She had on board Lieutenant Louis Ripley and twenty-nine of the injured seamen of the Trenton and Vandalla's crews, who had been left at Honolulu by the Alameda, which arrived here last week. The men were transferred to the hospital at Mare Island this afternoon.

The Sugar Market.
GLASGOW, April 20.—The Clyde sugar market is strong. Prices have risen threepence to-day, and sugar is two shillings dearer than on Saturday last, although the market is less firm than early in the week. Medium qualities are most wanted and rapidly bought. It is believed the top of the rise has not been reached. The advance is due to a prospect of a scarcity in the crop.

A Valuable Estate.
PITTSBURG, April 20.—The heirs of Hannah Hillman, about fifty in number, are organizing here to gain possession of the estate in East St. Louis left by her in 1822, then valued at $3,000,000, and is now worth, with the improvements, $12,000,000.

Admiral Kimberly's Report on the Samoan Disaster.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCHES TO THE GAZETTE.]

The Friendly Samoans

WASHINGTON, April 20.—This morning's mail to the Navy Department brought two letters from Admiral Kimberly referring to the wrecking of the American fleet at Apia. It is understood they are accompanied by a long detailed report, but this has not yet reached the Department. The first letter is dated Apia, March 19, and reads:

"Sir: I have to commend to the Government of the United States the great assistance we received in saving public property from our wrecked vessels at this place from Mataafa Malietoa, who, without request on my part, called on me personally and sent some hundreds of his men to assist our people in saving stores and materials from the wrecked vessels. Also when the Nipsic and Vandalla went on shore, the natives risked their lives to save those of our men, who endeavored to reach the shore by swimming, and two of them lost their lives in these attempts. If some recognition of these services could be made I think it would be appreciated very highly by the Samoans, particularly as they have so generously given their services, and in two cases their lives, to befriend us."

Under date of Apia, March 20, Kimberly writes that the Nipsic was got off last night and is now afloat, without rudder or rudder post. Her crew is engaged in trying to get up her chains. The Trenton is sunk and the water is coming over port side of her gun-deck at high water. I think her back is broken. She might possibly be freed from water if we had proper appliances, powerful steam pumps, etc. She has no rudder, rudder post or propeller, and lies with her decks slightly inclined to the seaward, and lies alongside of the wreck of the Vandalla, which is shoreward of her. The latter vessel is a total wreck, is broken in two, and at high tide the water rises over her forecastle. Only her foremast is standing. All are engaged in securing moorings for the Nipsic, in the wrecks of the Trenton and Vandalla. A good deal of what we save might be sold at public auction to pay the expense of storing and transportation. Our sick and injured are doing well. It would, perhaps, be as well to send a wrecking vessel here later in the season to save the Trenton's heavy guns, ammunition, etc. I have received from Captain H. C. Kane, R. N., a diving suit and apparatus, and will use it for all it is worth, but we ought to have another in case of an accident to this. I hope the Department will not forget Captain Kane's kindness to us in our distress. He commands H. B. M. S. Calliope, which vessel had but one boat. I gave to her one of our ten-oared cutters, but he did not consider it safe to lie there at this season of the year, and she sailed this morning for Sydney, where she will be repaired. She was considerably damaged by Olga colliding with her. Almost every vessel was at one time or another in collision with some other vessel, and a great deal of the damage that occurred was owing to this cause. If I can save the Nipsic, which can be done if the weather permits, I will send her under convoy to Auckland to be docked and repaired. Another ship should be sent here for the purpose of conveying her, as the risk of an improvised rudder is too great to send her there alone. I have still to learn of the condition of her machinery and propeller, but shall be informed in the course of a few days. Very respectfully your obedient servant,

L. A. KIMBERLY,
Rear Admiral, U. S. N.
Commanding U. S. Naval Force on Pacific Station.

Kimberly's official report is quite long. It gives the details of the disaster in substance as already related by the Associated Press. The following points of interest are taken from the Admiral's report: Indications of bad weather appeared on Friday forenoon, March 15th, and at 1 o'clock he commenced preparations to meet the gale by sending down the lower yards, housing the top-masts, lighting the fires and raising steam. He refers to the fact that the most of the water came into the flagship through the hawse pipes, as related in the Associated Press report, and the Admiral says that all efforts to prevent this failed, owing to the force of the waves driving over everything used to stop them.

A letter from Commander D. C. Mullan of the Nipsic, dated Apia, March 23, and addressed to the Secretary of the Navy, reads: "In compliance with paragraph 29, page 48, of the United States Navy regulations, I have the honor to report that all the power was used on the 16th of March, during the violent hurricane which occurred in this harbor."

D. W. MULLAN, Commander.

May be Safe.
LONDON, April 20.—Captain Blacklen of the British steamer Minnesota, from Baltimore, reports that on the 4th inst., in latitude 45° 18' north and longitude 37° west, he passed a life-boat painted white with the words, "Danmark. Copenhagen," on the stern. In the boat was one car and three rowlocks in position for use. A boat-hook and a tarpaulin laid along the bottom of the boat, which was half full of water, and the painter was coiled in the head sheets. Pieces of cigar boxes were also seen in the boat. From every appearance the people who had been aboard the boat had been taken off.

Will go to London.
BRUSSELS, April 20.—Boulanger has decided to leave for London on next Wednesday.

Defective Air Brakes.
DULUTH, April 20.—As a train of fourteen loaded cars with Superintendent Page's private car attached was descending a heavy grade between Two Harbors and Galadina, the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad, the air brakes refused to work, and the train gained a frightful velocity. The brakeman managed to uncouple the private car, which was soon stopped by the hand brakes, and the rest of the train plunged madly on, reaching a speed of 110 an hour, and finally left the track, demolishing the engine and all the cars. Engineer Charles Cutler had both legs broken and two other men were seriously hurt.

Postmaster Pearson Dead.
NEW YORK, April 25.—Ex-Postmaster H. G. Pearson died this morning. Ex-Postmaster General James brought the news of Pearson's death to the Postoffice this morning and then entered upon his duties. His son-in-law, pursuant to the action recently taken by Pearson's bondsmen, delegating the powers of the office to him, sent a telegram to Postmaster General Wamsucker apprising him of the death. Pearson's death is from hemorrhage, caused by a cancer of the stomach. He had been in a comatose state from 11 o'clock yesterday morning. He was 45 years of age. He leaves a widow but no children.

A Broker's Death—The Great Fire.
NEW YORK, April 20.—Alexander Henriquez, Vice Chairman of the New York stock exchange, died this morning. Four engines and two fire boats continue to pour water on the ruins of last night's fire. Two thousand barrels of oil in Wilcox's refinery will have to be burned until burned out. The wounded are all doing well. No further deaths are expected.

No Yellow Fever.
WASHINGTON, April 20.—Surgeon-General Hamilton this morning received a telegram from the President of the Board of Health of Florida stating that the report of yellow fever in Jacksonville is absolutely false, and that the general health of the city is decidedly good.

Trouble Anticipated.
EL PASO, April 20.—The excitement over the City Government trouble is still running high. Kraken, the Republican contestant, was arrested yesterday for contempt of Court in refusing to disclose the combination of the city safe. His trial is in progress, and if he is sent to jail, trouble is anticipated.

The Whole Party Drowned.
CARTHAGE, Mo., April 20.—Mrs. A. H. Lucas, accompanied by her daughters and a hired man, attempted to ford a swollen creek in a wagon last evening, when the waters carried the whole outfit down stream and all were drowned.

Drowned in a Slough.
WINNEMCCA, April 19.—Mrs. George Lovelock was drowned in a slough of the Humboldt river at Lovelock, this county, last night. She is supposed to have fallen in the water while fishing.

Bentley and Robbed.
CINCINNATI, April 20.—James Kelso arrived last night from Muncie, Ind., with $3,000 in cash. In his hotel last night he was attacked by an unknown man and beaten insensible and robbed. He believed his assailant followed him from Muncie.

Unpopular Medicine Man.
ZANZIBAR, April 20.—Dr. Peters has arrived here, and reports that the people of the Somali ports refused to give the steamer on which he traveled any cargo, and notified him that if he landed he would be killed.

The Boilers "Fixed."
MINNEAPOLIS, April 20.—The Street-car Company attempted to start the steam motor on the line to-day, but the motors had all been "fixed," and the boilers were filled with soap, soda and vitriol.

STOCKHOLM, April 20.—Crown Princess Victoria of Sweden has given birth to a son.

Nine Million Witches Burned.
Sprenger computes that during the Christian era no fewer than nine million witches were immolated. In England, the last execution for witchcraft took place in 1716, but in Illinois as late as 1780 to 1790, several unfortunate were put to death. This is a terrible reflection on the boasted enlightenment of the age; but we must not be over-credulous, while we daily see friends going down to death, ignorance or prejudice preventing the use of remedies which might save them. Many a cold run into consumption, while indigestion and impure blood debilitates the system, inviting fatal attacks, when the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery would have ensured health and happiness.

Greatly Improved.
S. J. Eckman, foreman of the N. C. & O. car shops at this place, has been confined to his room for the last ten days with congestion of the brain. For several days his case was a hopeless one, but, through the skill of Dr. D. H. Berry, of the Nevada Loan and Investment Company, a corporation formed and existing under and by virtue of the constitution and laws of the State of Nevada, presented to Hon. R. R. Bigelow, Judge of the District Court of the State of Nevada, in and for Washoe county, State of Nevada, the decree of said court dissolving and incorporating said corporation, which petition is accompanied by the certificate of the proper officers of the corporation, setting forth that a meeting of the stockholders of said corporation, duly held on the 20th day of March, 1889, for the purpose of considering the question of the incorporation of said corporation, that it was decided by the vote of the majority of the stockholders of said corporation to dissolve and incorporate the same; and whereas:

A Bad Record.
A Los Angeles dispatch of the 17th inst. contains an unsavory account of the licentious behavior of the Rev. (?) G. W. James, who formerly resided in this city, and who is now in Nevada, town. If the charges against the fellow are true no time should be lost in pitching him out of the sanctuary.

A Life Made Miserable.
By dyspepsia is scarcely worth the living. A capricious appetite, heartburn, puzzling nervous symptoms, increasing action of the heart after eating, sinking of the abdomen between meals, and indigestion after, are among the indices of this harassing complaint. Two things only are needful for its removal. A resort to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and persistence in its use. These remedial measures being adopted, a cure is certain. Taken immediately before or after meals, the great stomachic promotes secretion of the gastric juice, the natural solvent of the food. The nervous and bilious system consequent upon chronic indigestion disappear as the complaint gradually yields to the correcting and invigorating influence of the Bitters. Appetite returns, sleep becomes more refreshing, and as a sequence, the body increases in strength and vigor. Use the Bitters for chills and fever, and rheumatism.

An Expression of Delight.
"About a week ago," says a Los Angeles, Cal., druggist, "a Chinaman came in with a lame shoulder. I sold him a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and guaranteed that it would cure him. He came in again last night, and as soon as he got inside the door began to swing his arms over his head like an Indian club swinger. I thought the balm had not done it, but he finally stopped long enough to say: 'Medicine velly fine, vally fine; all same make me feel plenty good.' Without an equal for sprains, rheumatism, aches, pains or lame back. For sale by Osburn & Shoemaker."

Eucalypti.
This is what you ought to have, in fact, you must have it, to fully enjoy life. Thousands are searching for it daily and mourning because they find it not. Thousands upon thousands of dollars are spent annually by our people in the hope that they may attain this boon. And yet it may be had by all. We guarantee the Electric Bitters, if used according to directions and the use persisted in, will bring you good digestion, and cure dyspepsia, and install instead Eucalypti. We recommend Electric Bitters for Dyspepsia and all diseases of Liver, Stomach and Kidneys. Sold at 25c and 50c per bottle by S. J. Hodgkinson, druggist.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.
The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures ringworm, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Hodgkinson & Co., druggists.

A Scrap of Paper Saves Her Life.

It was just an ordinary scrap of wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicians that she was incurable and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read Dr. King's New Discovery, and got a sample bottle; it helped her, she bought a large bottle, it helped her more, bought an other and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong, healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 140 lbs. For further particulars send stamp to W. H. Cole, druggist, Fort Smith. Trial bottles of this wonderful Discovery free at S. J. Hodgkinson's.

It was maintained by the late Horace Greeley, that "nothing succeeds like success." If this be true, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will be popular, as it never fails. It is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough, and is undoubtedly the best and most reliable medicine in use for these diseases. It is decidedly a success. For sale by Osburn & Shoemaker.

Oregon is one of the most productive States in the Union. Its vast mineral regions contain gold, silver, copper, iron and coal. Its immense tracts of grazing lands support thousands of cattle and sheep, and its extensive agricultural regions produce all the cereals in abundance, the yield per acre being in some instances, the largest in the world. Among the useful and valuable products of the Western States may be mentioned Oregon Kidney Tea, which has proved a boon to thousands afflicted with pain in the back and kidney difficulties. It is purely of vegetable composition and never fails. Sold by William Pinkster.

"BREAD ON THE WATERS."

A Play Which Should be Liberally Patronized.

Last evening a GAZETTE reporter was allowed the privilege of being present at a dress rehearsal of the play "Bread on the Waters," and was well pleased with the evening's entertainment. The young people enter into the sport of the thing with fully as much enthusiasm as if they were professionals, perhaps more, the novelty not having worn off, and they all acquit themselves in a highly creditable manner. Those taking part are the Misses Nellie Rulison, Gertrude and Carrie McIntosh, and Masters George Bates, Orvis Tredway, John Dauchy, Harry Martin and Charles Coffin. The plot is an interesting one, besides being amusing, and furnishes a variety of acting, the characters being quite dissimilar. The play is in two acts, the first scene represents a flourishing village seminary, under the tuition of Dr. Harlem, (George Bates), his own family being composed of Mrs. Loring, (Nellie Rulison), his house-keeper; his daughter Lucy, (Gertrude McIntosh), and a little girl called Dilly, (Carrie McIntosh), who had been found by his son Harry, (Orvis Tredway), abandoned by the roadside, some years ago, and adopted into the family, being under the special protection of Harry, by whom she is fondly called, among other pet names, little "Bread on the Waters." The time is the closing of the school year, the pupils having left for their homes with the exception of two, Fred Hastings, (Harry Martin), who proves to be the

HEAVY VILLAIN OF THE PLAY.

And Bob Winders, (Charles Coffin) who is "dead in love" with Lucy Harlem, but is too fat to hope for a return of his love. Fred Hastings is also in love with the Doctor's fair daughter, and their conflicting claims lead to several amusing contrivances.

As usual in a school of this character, lots of fun and mischievous pranks are going on, the ringleaders being Hastings, Winders and the Doctor's son Harry; the fun-loving Dilly also, often lending a helping hand. Among them they manage to afford pretty constant business to the village constable, Jonathan Wild Butte, old Butte for short, (John Dauchy). Something of a more serious character has occurred now, however, Harry having been led into wild courses by his false friend, Harry Harlan is accused of having forged his father's name to a check to obtain money to pay a gambling debt, and the curtain falls on the disclosure of the same; Harry, being driven an outcast from his father's home, manages with the assistance of Dilly and Bob Winders, to make good his escape.

Act Second, five years later, shows the Doctor and his family, with the exception of Harry, of whom nothing has been heard since his flight from home, still in the old house, the Doctor, broken in mind and body, a wreck of his former self.

HIS HOME MORTGAGED.

And soon to be lost, Mrs. Loring and Lucy, anxious and depressed, and greatly dependent on Dilly for comfort in their hour of need.

It is just five years from the day on which Harry left his home, and by a strange coincidence, Fred Hastings and Bob Winders both return on the same day to visit their old school, attracted more by Miss Lucy's charms, however, than by a desire to revisit their boyhood's haunts. Bob by travel, etc., has become reduced to fair proportions, and no longer fears his size will tell against him. He soon becomes possessed of the State of the Doctor's affairs, and having plenty of money, insists on paying the mortgage and relieving the necessities of the family. Hastings, now an elegant young man, tries hard to secure Lucy's consent to become his wife, and might succeed were it not that either Dilly or Bob puts in an appearance just at the most interesting time, much to his disgust. The zealous Butte reappears also, this time in search of a criminal from California, who he is sure is in this neighborhood, and whom he thinks to be an old man, who has been prowling around the village for some time, but who proves to be Harry Harlan in disguise. He has returned, hoping to PROVE HIS INNOCENCE.

And, mainly through Dilly, this he is at last enabled to do, Fred Hastings being found the real criminal, as well as the one of whom Butte is in search. Harry's return gives new life to his doctor. Harry claims Dilly as his rightful property, and Bob Winders, no longer having a rival in Fred Hastings, secures Lucy as his life-partner, whereby he declares he gets the best of the bargain, which, as we see, is "just his luck." The curtain falls on a happy family party, feeling that it is well to "cast thy bread on the waters, for it shall return after many days."

OUR CITIZENS.

Our citizens, by lending their aid, can feel that they, too, are casting their bread upon the waters, and that it will surely return to them before many days—return in the pleasure afforded to them by an evening well spent, and in the knowledge that they have assisted in a worthy cause. Between the acts a song will be given by Master Sam Moringo, accompanied on the piano by Miss Kittie Grippen, and the time occupied in changing costumes and scenery will not drag, as is sometimes the case, especially with amateur performances.

The Charleston's Guns.

The heavy guns for the new steel cruiser Charleston passed through yesterday morning consigned to the General Superintendent of the Mare Island and Navy Yard. These guns are of the latest improved steel ordnance, and are each 16 feet 4 inches long, 3 feet 4 inches in circumference at the breech and 2 feet 10 inches at the muzzle, with a rifled bore 6 inches in diameter, and when mounted weigh 9 tons each. They are fine pieces of artillery.

Some Particulars.

The Silver State of the 19th inst. says: Further particulars of the cutting affray just over the line in Oregon are to the effect that it occurred at the Colony ranch, owned by Pete French.

The men had procured whisky and drank pretty freely, and two of them, Richard Coyer, a white man, and Ben Jones, a half-breed California Indian, had a wrestling bout, after which Jones stabbed and gashed Cooper seventeen times, fearfully mutilating him, and inflicting wounds which proved fatal. It is said that witnesses to the affair, who were themselves half drunk, kicked Jones severely while he was cutting Cooper to pieces.

Saving Water.

A Truckee correspondent writes the GAZETTE that the gates at Tahoe City have been closed down for about a month, and the lake has raised nearly a foot. There is a good prospect for a further raise of at least two feet, so that, with a few soaking Spring rains, the farmers of this valley need not despair.

A Fortunate Druggist.

Mr. Edwin W. Joy for many years and now a poor, crooked druggist on the corner of Stockton and Market streets in San Francisco, probably never dreamed of rivaling in wealth the medicine kings of the country. But various rumors having been floating around to the effect that he was a big, an Examiner reporter was detailed to research the cause, and after much difficulty unraveled the following story:

It seems that about seven years ago an English physician, a great student of botany, located in this city. His practice was not extensive, and yet the few cases that came to him attracted no little attention. His success seemed to be in the treatment of liver and kidney diseases, and vitiated blood. In fact his ability to cope with these common complaints was marvelous. He seemed almost infallible, and his quiet modest methods and his well-kept secret was as much a mystery as himself. After his departure about a year later Mr. Joy determined to follow the secret, and copying all the prescriptions for liver and kidney troubles, vitiated blood and stomach disorders, a couple of vegetable extracts indigenous to California, so simple and so well known under homely every day names to every school boy as to entirely disprove the suspicion that they were the active principles involved. So certain, however was Mr. Joy that he had discovered the secret, that he embodied the new elements in a preparation of Sarsaparilla to disguise the taste, and put it before his customers under the modest name of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. Immediately the same marvelous stories came back of its astonishing effects, and the mystery was solved, and the talk it has created has already caused it to step into prominence, and orders pour in daily from all over the coast. And thus another California industry leaps into existence.—S. F. Examiner.

PROFESSIONAL READERS.
A New and Pleasant Occupation for Gentle, Cultured Young Men.

As the elegancies and luxuries of life grow more common, the increase of wealth produces new needs which are constantly creating new employments, writes Garry Owen Gaines in the Country Gentleman.
One of the latest of these, and to which women are admirably and specially adapted, is the vocation of reader to invalids or elderly people. In a number of cities ladies follow this as a business and make a good thing of it, and it is destined to be one of the increasing occupations of the future as education, intelligence and wealth become more general. There will always be invalids and always a crop of well-to-do old people for patrons, and the woman who can make herself a reader in this way will not lack for employment. There is no school-room drudgery connected with it to wear her out, body and soul, before her time, as is the usual lot of teachers in our graded schools, but rather it is a delightful ministering to her intellectual peers, and one can readily imagine the work to be in entire consonance with the tastes of the most cultivated, refined lady who is forced to be self-supporting.

In many families among the wealthy classes the aged parents, whose dim eyes can no longer see the printed page, Children are too busy and full of cares in this rushing American life, and grandchildren often too heedless, to stop their work or their pleasures to read to their forlorn old folks, who, though surrounded by luxuries on every side, actually suffer from starvation of the mind! Thinking, then, what a beam of light is this visiting reader, who forms the link that connects them with the bustling circles of humanity, of which they have been hitherto only a silent part--"the world forgetting, by the world forgot"--because they could no longer see!

Perhaps it is a blind or partially blind scholar, or one of literary tastes, who, but for the kindness of others--a kindness too often given grudgingly, to the shame of humanity be it said!--must ever sit in that darkness which is greater anguish than physical night. Perhaps it is a sick man or woman slowly convalescing, whose keen interest in the outside world has become intensified by long weeks of deprivation of the accustomed daily journal. To all such the visiting reader is a prize for which they are willing to pay a good sum.

Reading seems such an easy thing that doubtless many young women will catch at this prospect of a new and less laborious life than many of the paths trodden by impecunious workahnds, but the fact is that the reading is one of the most accomplishments. Hundreds of girls are good piano players, and creditable artists and painters, who will mangle an essay or poem beyond all recognition by its author, were he so unfortunate as to be present to listen to it.

There are some persons who read an anecdote or humorous sketch about as spiritedly as they would the Lamentations of Jeremiah, while scarcely one person in twenty knows enough to grasp the proper inflections, and therefore utterly fails to read conversational passages intelligibly.
It is simply because the writer's meaning is not understood. We might almost say that readers, like poets, are born and not made. Lacking that, they must have sympathy with the author, the possession or absence of which constitutes the difference between good and poor readers, they lack every thing, and all the schools of elocution and labor of voice drill in the world will not supply what nature has failed to give.

An hour or two spent in the cheerful morning room of a brown-stone mansion, reading the news of the day to a bright, companionable old gentleman, the best walk in the pleasant air to the house of some refined old lady or sweet invalid girl, who is longing to hear the latest news of a noted divine or the choice things in the last magazine, certainly seems the very acme of the agreeable in the way of earning one's bread; but please to bear in mind dear miss or madam who aspire to this profession, that to secure such places you must know your business thoroughly.

Know that if there is one thing more irritating than another to a sensitive auditor, it is to have a reader stammer over and repeat words, or spoil the pleasure of the entire article by ear-torturing mispro-nunciation. It is like sitting on needles and pins for nervous persons to be compelled to listen to botchy reading, to anticipate two or three seconds in advance of the droning voice and measured sing-song sentences just what will come next, and get themselves into a fever speculating how many times more you will come to a dead stop at an innocent comma, and thus mar the whole meaning.

A really fine reader has it in his power to confer so much pleasure on others that the wonder is why it has been allowed to almost become one of the "lost arts." The hostess of a country party blesses her lucky stars when she states when the sympathetic one who knows how to read, feeling that she has secured an attraction as rare as it is pleasurable, and instances are not uncommon where a popular minister's hold on a congregation is his beautiful rendering of the Scriptures and the hymns.

In a greater measure, because reaching those who are cut off by age or sickness from the usual channels of information, does the visiting reader give enjoyment to others, and earn her daily bread as well, by ministering to the pleasure of the sympathetic voice that carries the listener with her through moods, merry or tender, as depicted on the page, and, lastly, a quick appreciation and comprehension of the author's meaning.

HABITS OF WASPS.
An Incident Illustrative of Their Cunning and Ferocity.

The subterfuges resorted to by animals in search of food have been regarded by the general reader as the most interesting and instructive portion of the works of naturalists. An incident illustrative of the cunning of the wasp was recently related to the New York Ledger by an observing gentleman.

A blue wasp, known as the solitary wasp, because it lives alone in its little clay nest, was seen to hunt itself upon the strong, wheel-shaped web of a large spider. Here it set up a loud buzzing, like that of a fly when accidentally entangled in a similar web. The spider, watching at the door of his silken domicile, stole cautiously forth.
His advance was slow, for he evidently felt that he was approaching no common enemy.
The apparently desperate yet fruitless efforts of the wasp to free himself encouraged the spider and lured him forward. But when within some three inches of the intended victim, the wasp suddenly freed himself from his mock entanglements, and darting upon the poor spider, in a moment, as it were, pierced him with his deadly sting in a hundred places.

SLOW BUT SURE.
There is no question of the success of cattle growing. It may take years for the man who starts in with four or five milch cows to reach a position of independence, also cost some privation, hardship, and close economy in the beginning, but there is no question but that he is absolutely sure of immense success if he will stick to it and persevere. He must of course cultivate the soil to some extent in the beginning; raise vegetables for his table; fence and grow meadows; fence pastures, and lay the foundations for feeding a large herd during the winter.

This accomplished, the road is easy, and he may drive straight ahead. In days gone by the cattle growers did not find this necessary. He only had to get a few cows and wait for them to increase, as they flourished the year round on the range. To-day, however, the cow only relies upon there living on the commons eight or nine months in the year, and must have enclosures and hay for the rest of the time. But this is far better than relying on feeding and enclosures all the year round as must be done in the states.

If the boomers, who are rushing now so hard to fill Montana with immigrants, were holding out the advantages of Montana for stock growing in a small way and the ease with which one could get a start from a small bunch of dairy cows we would not have such a solicitude for those who come. We feel that stock growing and dairying on a small scale, carefully attended to, can not fail to yield a good living and in the end lead to independence and wealth. And locations for stock growing are, to our mind, more easily found than first class farming locations with water privileges. Rocky Mountain Husbandman.

Any kind of a horse is liable to blunder once in a while. The most sure-footed horse will sometimes stumble when ridden or driven over rough roads. Drivers should expect this, and try to avoid it when possible; but when it cannot be avoided the next best thing is to treat an unfortunate animal as kindly as possible when such accidents occur. The usual practice when a horse happens to lose his balance is for the driver to lose his temper and his judgment at the same time, and fall to beating the poor brute just as if it were to blame for the misfortune. It would be a mean horse in deed that would stumble and fall for the fun there is in it.
It is but just and right to act upon the principle that no one can be blamed for that which he cannot help, and acting upon this assumption no man should be guilty of maltreating a poor horse when he happens to blunder.

An exchange says that one of its patrons has discovered a new cure for distemper. He had a valuable colt so bad with the disease that he thought it would certainly die. As a last resort the colt was placed in a close room, and a vessel containing live coals was procured and turpentine and sulphur placed on the coals. The fumes were almost stifling, but the colt seemed to enjoy them. The next day he was treated in the same way.
The animal at once began to recover and is now entirely well.

Three days is a very short time in hips and legs, when I bought a bottle myself in three days. I am all right towho is afflicted with that terrible disease to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm and get well at once." For sale by The Sharon Divorce Case.

The Examiner says: The Supreme Court on Tuesday made a brief order denying the motion to dismiss the appeal in the Sharon case. It will be remembered that a few weeks ago the attorneys for the Sharon estate delivered arguments in the Superior Court before Judge Sullivan in an application for a new trial, which the Judge refused to grant. Against this action of Judge Sullivan an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court, and on behalf of Mrs. Terry, Judge Maguire asked that the appeal be dismissed.

As the appeal is now solely before the Supreme Court the order of Judge Sullivan denying a new trial will come up for argument and trial in the usual manner.
